New Facility Supports Continued Growth

New York, NY – January 1, 2009 – TxVia, Inc., a pioneer in processing technology for network-based payment systems, announced today the opening of an operations center in Tamarac, Florida. The 24x7 facility houses the company's onshore portion of its managed services group, including cardholder servicing, risk management and platform operations.

“Opening of the TxVia operations center in South Florida is a key step in the rollout of our transformational platform-as-a-service (PaaS) delivery model for processing network-based payment systems,” said Jonathan Weiner, executive vice president, program and managed services at TxVia. “The facility enables us to support continued growth with a comprehensive service offering to our clients. While, with TxVia, our clients can choose to take various degrees of control over a broad range of functions, they can now also completely outsource all aspects of processing and program management to us.”
